

The Weekly Ferrets Magazine Newswire - January 23, 2009

Ferret found; Pet treat danger; Pet adoptions; Smoking and pets; Pets in wills; Woman and ferret injured.

Posted: January 23, 2009, 9:30 p.m. EST

Lost Ferret Ends Up In Library

A ferret that escaped its cage and was wandering the streets was found by a library manager and eventually claimed by its owner, reports the Hornsey and Crouch End Journal (UK). Read Now>>

Salmonella Outbreak Reaches Pet Treats

The outbreak of Salmonella in peanut products was recently confirmed in some dog biscuits, reports DVM360. Read Now>>

A Change In Pet Adoptions

Although the local humane society only accepts cats and dogs, exotic animals that need a home could find help at Petco, reports The Rapid City Journal. Read Now>>

Will Pets Benefit From New Smoking Law?

A new law in Oregon bans smoking in bars, and some people believe this will reduce smoking overall, which could benefit pets, reports Oregon.live. Read Now>>

Do's And Don'ts To Putting Your Pet In Your Will

Providing for your pet in your will has to be done properly, or your wishes could be ignored, reports InsideBayArea.com. Read Now>>

Man Injures Woman And Ferret

An altercation between a man and a woman resulted in the man injuring the woman and a pet ferret, reports the Bracebridge Examiner. Read Now>>