

Valentine's Cards Mean Free Food For Ferret Shelters

A ferret food manufacturer will donate food to ferret shelters based on the number of Valentine's Day cards its spokesferret receives.

By Marylou Zarbock

Posted: January 28, 2009, 2 p.m. EST

If you enjoy sending Valentine's Day cards and your heart belongs to ferrets, the makers of Totally Ferret food want you to consider adding Isabella Gucci-Jones to your Valentine's Day card list. Who is Isabella Gucci-Jones? She is a ferret with her own club at Totally Ferret, a company that makes ferret-specific foods and supplements.

Totally Ferret recently announced a Valentine's Day special. For every Valentine's Day card sent to Isabella ferret through Valentine's Day, the company said it will donate 1 pound of ferret food to Support Our Shelters, a nonprofit organization that aids ferret shelters. The cards can be sent via e-mail or postal mail at the following addresses: Isabella@totallyferret.com for e-mail, or Isabella, 3001 Industrial Lane #4, Broomfield, CO 80021 for postal mail. The offer is limited to one card being sent per person/ferret.